TO THE READER.

Dear Chriſtian Reader,

THE Bible is the moſt neceſſary, inſtructive, comfortable, and profitable book in the whole Creation, to which we owe the ſuperior bleſſings we enjoy above the Heathen World; and by which is brought to light things that were hid from the foundation of the world, but now are made manifeſt, and by the ſcriptures of the Prophets, according to the commandment of the everlaſting GOD, made known to all nations for the obedience of faith, Rom. xvi. 26. Life eternal, light, and immortality, are brought to light by the goſpel. The will and counſel of the great GOD, concerning the ſalvation and happineſs of loſt, ruined ſinners, are herein opened; which the feeble light of nature could make no diſcovery of; therefore every means and help, to underſtand the ſacred oracles, is a meſſenger of life from GOD to the immortal ſoul.

UNDER the influence of Heaven, this Book will be as a key to open the divine cabinet, and lead thee to the well-ſpring of life. A good Concordance and Dictionary is to be eſteemed next to the book of GOD, as it is the readieſt means of making us wiſe, intelligent, and eloquent in the ſcriptures; the knowledge of which more excels all other knowledge than the light of the ſun does that of the ſmalleſt ſtar.

THE great worth of a good Concordance, is partly evident by the unwearied pains and labours that have been took by many of the moſt intelligent and ſtudious, in works of this nature; ſome accounts whereof we ſhall give in this Preface, and then proceed to acquaint the reader with the method and plan here propoſed.

Hugh, of S. Caro, a Dominican Friar, and Biſhop of Barcinona, afterwards made Cardinal by Innocent the Fourth, was the firſt who compoſed a Concordance, and died at Rome in 1262: It was a moſt laborious work, wherein he digeſted all the declineable words of the holy ſcriptures, according to the order of their letters, with great accuracy, ſetting down not only the book, but the chapter, and the lines of the chapter, wherein every word was contained. What ſhift was here made to ſupply the defect of verſes? which ſtill was a very uncertain direction, becauſe lines are either longer or ſhorter, according to the ſize of the volume, type, or paper; but every thing of this kind muſt needs be incomplete at firſt, and does but riſe to perfection by degrees. The next who engaged in this work, was one Atlot, who lived towards the end of the thirteenth century: The book which he compiled, gave occaſion to R. Iſaac Nathan, or R. Mordecai Nathan, to collect a Hebrew Concordance, which was firſt printed at Venice, by Bombery, 1523, afterwards at Baſil, 1632, and perfected by Buxtorf, and printed at Baſil: This book was ten years in compleating, notwithſtanding many hands were employed in it.

it. In imitation of this, Xyltus Betuleius, of Augſberg, compiled a Greek Concordance for the New Teſtament, which was afterwards improved by Henry the ſon of Robert Stevens, which he printed 1594, and amended in a ſecond edition, printed at Geneve 1624, but advanced to farther accuracy under a two-fold edition by Eraſmus Schmidius.

The like has been done in other languages, as well as in the three learned; and it is our happineſs, that many have been done in the Engliſh Tongue, firſt by Mr. Marbeck, dedicated to King Edward the Sixth, which refers not to verſes but chapters only. More uſeful ones have been publiſhed by Bernard, Cotton, Newman, and Cruden, of the larger ſort, and by Downham, Wickens, Vavaſor Powel, (with Dr. Owen's additions) Jackſon's Clark's, and others of the ſmaller ſort: But many of theſe are too large and expenſive to be come at by the poorer Chriſtians; and others of them are too ſmall to contain what is neceſſary. Our intention in this, is to ſteer between the two extremes, by making it an handſome Octavo, as near as poſſible to the ſize of Dyche's or Bailey's Dictionary.

In regard to the various acceptations of words, we deſign to be very particular, ſo as to make it a good body of divinity, and yet to include many ideas in few words, partly to help the reader's memory, and partly to prevent its growing bigger than the propoſed plan.

No pains will be ſpared to make it one of the moſt compleat books of the kind; and that a divine bleſſing may attend it, and make it as repleniſhing ſhowers of rain to enrich the Church of the living GOD, and all the dear lambs of JESUS CHRIST, with knowledge, comfort fort, growth and eſtabliſhment, in the things of the Kingdom, are the earneſt prayers of yours,

In the Goſpel of our

Precious and Exalted REDEEMER,

J. B.

Thoſe unacquainted with the Nature of Concordances, are deſired to obſerve the following Things:

1. That the Word looked for is only inſerted at full Length, at the Head of the Claſs; in every following Line the firſt Letter is put for the Word, as A. is put for AARON, c. for COMMAND, or COMMANDMENT; and if there are two Words at the Head of the Claſs, a ſhort Ellipſis or blank Line is put before, or after the letter, as for (Their or Thy Abominations) is put - a.; for (abode There) is a. - and ſo of other Words.
2. Where two Sentences, or diſtinct Quotations, are in one Line, they are by this Mark | divided.
3. That the Marginal Reading (which is often of great Uſe to underſtand the Meaning of the Text, and for that Reaſon alſo inſerted in this Concordance) is by this † diſtinguiſhed.

PREFACE.

A CONCORDANCE is an alphabetical Index to the Bible, wherein all the words in the holy ſcriptures are ranged or placed in order, that we may find out the particular book, chapter and verſe of any paſſage in ſcripture. This alſo aſſiſts us in diſcovering the meaning and ſignification of many texts of ſcripture; for the beſt rule of interpreting ſcripture is by comparing one ſcripture with another.

It is the duty of all chriſtians to ſearch the ſcriptures, and to be well acquainted with the ſacred writings, which are a revelation from GOD, given as the only rule of our faith and practice, and to diſcover to us the way to eternal life through our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

The ſcriptures are called The BIBLE, or The BOOK, by way of eminency and diſtinction; becauſe they far excel all other books; for they contain the whole will of GOD neceſſary to be known for our ſalvation: They contain that wiſdom which is far above the wiſdom of the world; for the wiſdom, power, and grace of GOD are greatly diſplayed in the wonderful way of ſalvation through the incarnation, death, and ſufferings of the eternal Son of GOD.

The ſcriptures were inſpired by the HOLY GHOST: All ſcripture is given by inſpiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for inſtruction in righteouſneſs. They were penned by the moſt excellent of men for wiſdom and holineſs, as Moſes, David, Solomon, the Prophets, Apoſtles, and Evangeliſts. They are moſt perfect, pure, deep, and immutable, and contain all things neceſſary for faith and practice. No writings like the ſcriptures bring ſuch glory to GOD, or have ſuch an efficacy in converting the ſoul: and though theſe books were written by divers men in divers ages, yet there is as great a harmony in them as if they had been written by one man.

Several centuries of years have paſſed ſince ſomething has been done by way of a Concordance to the Bible, and that in various languages. Many Concordances have been publiſhed in our own language, both larger and ſmaller: and not many years ago Alexander Cruden, M. A. publiſhed a Concordance to the Bible, in large quarto, which has proved very uſeful, and has been well received by the public: A ſecond edition of which was publiſhed, after the firſt of ſeveral thouſand copies was ſold off; and that has been made uſe of in compoſing this ſmall Concordance, which, though conciſe, may be of great ſervice to thoſe who cannot eaſily purchaſe Mr. Cruden's larger work.

This Concordance has been compiled with great care by the pious and judicious author: The method that he has uſed, and the various ſignifications given therein of the principal words, will render it more uſeful than any ſmall Concordance hitherto publiſhed.

The great advantages of a Concordance for helping us to attain to the knowledge of the holy ſcriptures are not conſidered by many as they ought to be, otherwiſe it is not to be ſuppoſed that ſo many as call themſelves chriſtians would be without ſo valuable a help to a juſt knowledge of the ſacred ſcriptures.

May this attempt for promoting that knowledge be attended with the bleſſing of GOD, and made uſeful by the SPIRIT of GOD who indicted the ſcriptures, to thoſe who apply themſelves to the reading and ſtudy of them, and may they be made wiſe unto ſalvation through faith which is in Chriſt Jeſus! Amen.

DOVE. The ſeveral ſpecies of the Dove are, the Wood-pigeon, the Tame-pigeon, the Ring-dove or Turtle, the Picaipinima, and the St. Thomas's Pigeon. The three firſt often occur in the Bible, under the names of the Pigeon and Turtle-dove; and the two laſt are natives of America; the Picaipinima being the grey and black Dove, with a white breaſt; and the St. Thomas's Pigeon being the Columba, with yellow legs.

¶ The Dove is the ſymbol of ſimplicity and innocency. It is gentle, meek, fearful, ſimple, peaceable, having little or no gall; chaſte, loving, ſociable. It's not harmful to other beaſts or fowls. It feeds not on carrion, but on the pureſt ſeed or grain, and loveth neatneſs and the pure waters, which, while in drinking, it lifteth up its head till it have enough. It teacheth its young ones to keep their neſts clean, and loveth the white colour. It's of a quick and piercing ſight, and can diſcern one kind of hawk from another; and accordingly avoid them. The male and female love, and keep fidelity towards each other; and if any quarrel happen, they are ſoon reconciled again, which they manifeſt by embracing each other. They love mens dwelling-houſes, and to be in their company; and being carried from home, will return many miles to their own houſes; of whom therefore ſome make uſe for carrying letters, by tying them about their necks, which their friends at home unty and read. It quickly forgets injuries done to it, as the ſpoiling of its neſt, taking away its young, &c. It's very fruitful, having young ones almoſt every month. Its feathers are of divers colours, which, according to the variety of its poſtures, and of the light ſhining upon it, look like ſilver or gold, Pſal. 68. 13. It mourns when it hath loſt its mate, Iſa. 38. 14. EAGLE, Is a bird of prey, the king of birds, frequently mentioned in scripture. It is declared unclean, Lev. 11. 13. as are all other birds of its species; as the sea-eagle, and the eagle called Ossifrage, because it breaks the bones in order to extract the marrow. The hawk and vulture may also be reckoned as different species of eagles.

It is of great courage, so as to set on harts and great beasts. And has no less subtilty in taking them; for having filled its wings with sand and dust, it sitteth on their horns, and by its wings shaketh it in their eyes, whereby they become an easy prey. It flieth very high, Prov. 30. 19. yet in the twinkling of an eye seizeth on its prey, whether on the earth, or in the sea. It buildeth its nest very high in the tops of rocks, Job 39. 27. It goeth forth to prey about noon, when men are gone home out of the fields.

It hath a little eye, but a very quick sight, and discerns its prey afar off, and beholds the sun with open eyes. Such of her young as through weakness of sight can't behold the sun, it rejects as unnatural. It liveth long, nor dieth of age or sickness (say some) but of hunger; for by age its bill grows so hooked that it cannot feed. It preys not on small birds, but on geese, hares, harts, serpents, and dead carcases. 'Tis said, that it preserves its nest from poison, by having therein a precious stone, name Aetites, (without which it is thought the eagle cannot lay her eggs, and which some use to prevent abortion, and help delivery in women, by tying it above or below the navel) and keepeth it clean by the frequent use of the herb Maiden-hair. Unless it be very hungry, it devoureth not the whole prey, but leaveth part of it for other birds, which follow it. Its feathers or quills are said to consume other quills that lie near them. Between the eagle and dragon there's constant enmity, the eagle seeking to kill it, and the dragon breaks all the eagle's eggs it can find, and hearing the noise of the eagle in the air, speedeth to his den, and there hides himself. To provoke its young ones to fly, it flutters over them and takes them on its wings, Deut. 32. 11. Isa. 40. 31. and if they attempt not to fly, it beats them with its bill, and gives them no food. Being exceeding hot and dry, it soon waxeth angry, nor keepeth, but shuns society with others. Some eagles prey in the air, some in the sea, wherein they can from on high perceive the smallest fish, and some on the land. The eagle moults and loses its feathers yearly, at which seasons it is very feeble, so as neither to hunt its prey, nor create terror in other birds as usual; but soon renews its native vigour again, Psal. 103. 5.

FOX, ES, A well known crafty animal, called in Hebrew, Shual, in Greek, Alopex. Wilſon relates many things of the fox: As that it lays its dung in the entrance of the badgers den, by which means it obtains it for its own uſe. It frights the wolves, its great enemies, from their dens, by laying the herb ſea-onion at the mouth of them. It digs holes for itſelf, but then leaves ſeveral outlets, that if the huntſman lays his ſnares at one, it may eſcape at another. When ſick, it eats the gum of pine-trees, whereby it is not only cured, but its days lengthened. When purſued by hunters, it makes urine on its tail, and ſtrikes it on the dogs faces. Some having been taken in a gin by the leg, have bit it off, and ſo eſcaped; others have feigned themſelves dead, till taken out, and then have run away. When hungry, they appear as if dead, on whom the fowls lighting for prey, they ſnatch and devour them. Many other things are ſaid of their cunning.

HOPE, "Is a firm expectation of all promised "good things, so far as may be for our good "and God's glory, but especially of eternal sal- "vation."

Hope is founded on the promise and oath of God, the grace, blood, righteousness, and intercession of Christ; and the earnest of the Holy Spirit in our hearts. The subject of hope, *is a believer. Again, hope is a fruit of faith, and is diſtinct from it, as it hath for its objects only things future and good; but the objects of faith, are good and evil, paſt, preſent, and to come.
